Admission to & Retention in ACA

Admission to the Adventist Colleges Abroad Summer Language Programs may be obtained only through a North American Seventh-day Adventist academy, college or university. Although any of the international schools or the Director of ACA may deny admission to anyone, acceptances are initiated only by these institutions mentioned above. This procedure assures validation of credits earned abroad and safeguards the integrity of the international schools, who can accept only a limited number of students into their language programs.

Acceptance by ACA involves the following steps, all of which are completed at a North American Seventh-day Adventist academy, college or university:

- ▶ Apply for admission as a regular student in the North American Seventh-day Adventist academy, college or university for the summer abroad.
- ▶ Complete all student sections of the ACA application form and secure signature of parent/guardian or person responsible for the student's finances.
- ▶ Arrange to complete financial payments with the Student Finance Office of the North American Seventh-day Adventist academy, college or university.
- ▶ The complete form, accompanied by payment in full, must be submitted to the North American Seventh-day Adventist academy, college or university Office of Admissions before May 10, 2010.

The North American Seventh-day Adventist academy, college or university signs the recommendation of the student for admission to the ACA Summer Language Program, then sends the original application (with all student photographs attached) and one photocopy of the application to the ACA office in Silver Spring, Maryland.

By the very nature of ACA, an individual in the Summer Language Program is first and foremost a student of the North American Seventh-day Adventist academy, college or university through which they apply. As such, the student is subject to the academic, financial and conduct requirements of the home campus. At the same time, the ACA student is also a part of the affiliated overseas school and as such is subject to all of its requirements as well. Failure to live up to any of these guidelines may be cause for removal from the program.

Student Statement

I am familiar with the conditions of admission to and retention in the ACA Summer Language Programs as printed above and I agree to obey these stipulations. If accepted, I will comply fully with the regulations of the host overseas institution. To the best of my ability, I shall conduct myself responsibly as a representative of my church, school, college or university and my country. I authorize ACA to release any necessary information regarding my curricular and co-curricular performance to my parent/guardian or person responsible for my finances. I am committed to remain for the full summer session program.

Statement From the North American Seventh-day Adventist Academy, College or University

_____ has been accepted as a student for the 2010 Summer term. We recommend this student for admission to the Adventist Colleges Abroad Summer Language Program.

We understand by this recommendation that, barring any conditionals that we list:

- ▶ In general scholarship, the applicant has achieved a satisfactory GPA.
(2.50 overall College-Level • 3.00 overall Secondary-Level)

- ▶ The applicant's strength of character and seriousness of purpose render unlikely their being influenced unfavorably by the distractions and diversions of living abroad.

- ▶ In personality, lifestyle and general behavior, the applicant can be recommended as a credible representative of this institution, the church and our country.

- ▶ The applicant has met the financial requirements of the program.
